Designing My Script
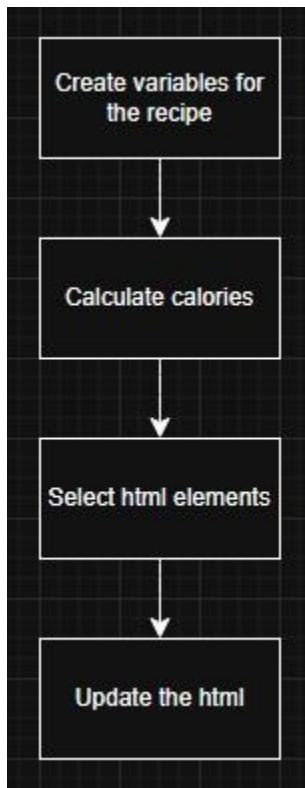

A. The script will be on the features page. A recipe will be displayed with its information. This benefits the site by showing recipe stats and calories can be calculated.
B. With this script, I aim to store recipe information and perform calculations needed for recipes like calories.
C. Create variables for the recipe, calculate calories, select html elements, and update the html.

D.